++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
A wet day ahead on Saturday, perhaps drier inland.

This Evening and Tonight:
A few blustery showers continue, mainly across western parts, but most places dry with long clear spells. Chilly in rural parts despite the southerly breeze. Minimum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Saturday:
A mainly dry and bright start but cloud and outbreaks of rain spread north towards midday, the rain heaviest, most persistent across southern and eastern Aberdeenshire. Occasionally strong southerly winds. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Potentially wet and very windy start in north Sunday then sunny or clear spells with isolated showers through the rest of Sunday and Monday. Lighter winds with occasional showers Tuesday.
